

WorldForge Constitution - Revision 1.0

This edition summarizes the constitutional framework developed during our design sessions, including the Living Archive, Personal Museum, preservation principles, player rights, and the WorldForge Oath.

Foundational Principles

- Nothing is forgotten.
- All is forgiven.
- All versions are recorded.
- No language is forgotten.
- Every culture deserves to be understood.
- Knowledge is preserved.
- Every player's story matters.
- Home is protected.
- Stories belong within their own worlds.
- Progress is permanent.

Article VIII – The Living Archive

- Players may preserve their collections, memories, photographs, pets, homes, research, projects, and creative works.
- Players may include digital representations of media and physical items they own or are authorized to use.
- Proof of ownership is voluntary.
- Proof of knowledge may include education, certifications, portfolios, research, museums, and professional experience.
- Players control privacy, sharing, and legacy.

Article IX – The Personal Museum

- Players curate museums reflecting their interests and collections.
- Items may be connected to educational topics, timelines, creators, and cultural context.
- AI companions assist with organization while players remain the curator.

Article X – Inspiration & Creative Heritage

- Inspiration sources may be preserved as part of the player's creative journey.
- Original player creations are preserved.
- Creators and intellectual property are respected.
- The Living Archive preserves knowledge for future generations according to player choice.

Selected Later Amendments

- XXVIII – Nothing is forgotten. All is forgiven.
- XXIX – All versions are recorded.

- XXX – Universal Translation.
- XXXI – Personal Collections & Digital Heritage.
- XXXII – Proof of Ownership & Knowledge Archive.
- XXXIII – Personal Heritage.
- XXXIV – Knowledge Before Ownership.
- XXXV – Provenance & Attribution.
- XXXVI – The Living Archive.
- XLIII – Personal Museum.
- XLVIII – Sources of Inspiration.
- LII – Preservation for Future Generations.

WorldForge Oath

- We preserve.
- We teach.
- We translate.
- We protect.
- We remember.
- We respect creators.
- We honor every culture.
- We connect knowledge.
- We inspire curiosity.
- We leave every world better than we found it.